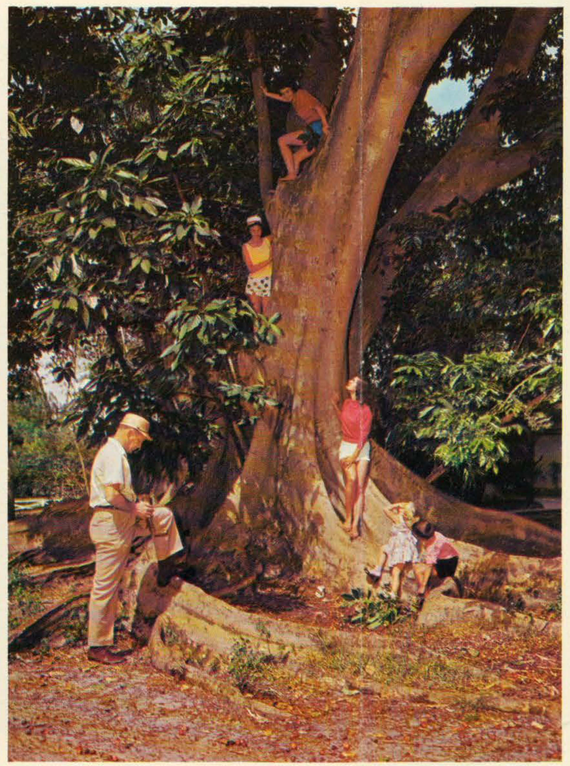
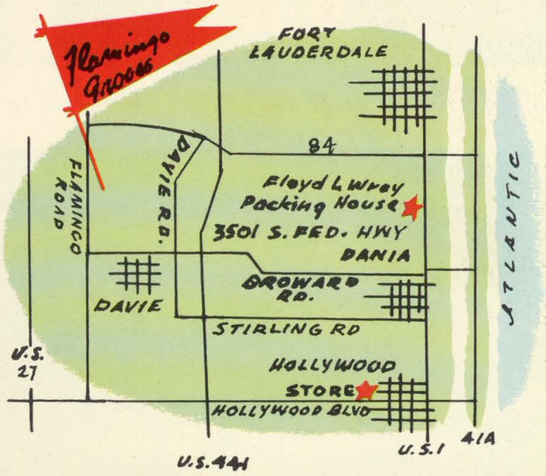
You Are Invited For a "Happy Time" At Flamingo Groves . . .

Yes, a visit to these famous groves and botanical gardens must be included on your list of interesting things to do in Florida. Here is tropical nature at her loveliest—blooming with crimson poinsettias and bougainvillea and flame-vine—a grove where 76 different kinds of citrus fruit are grown. See the pink-hued flamingos in their native habitat . . . while East Indian peacocks strut in all their gorgeous finery in the Gardens. What a story to tell the folks at home! Once you've seen the citrus harvest at Flamingo Groves—there are 460 acres of citrus trees—you will understand the care and attention that is given to sending the finest juice-heavy Florida fruits to your friends at home . . . and you'll have a truer insight into one of Florida's finest industries—citrus gift boxes! Yes, when it comes to fruit, only the very best is grown at Flamingo Groves!

More than 700 botanic trees from all over the tropical world are gathered in the Gardens . . . sausage trees, giant fig trees, papaya and rubber trees are real eye-openers! No wonder Floyd Wray's Flamingo Groves and Tropical Botanic Gardens are known far and wide as one of Florida's oldest and finest tourist attractions!



Thousands of visitors enjoy the Flamingo Grove GIFT STORE. Citrus fruit is packed in "convenient for auto-carrying" mesh bags. Citrus gift boxes and fancy baskets are displayed for express shipments to your friends back home. You will be thrilled at the many hundreds of souvenir gifts for sale. OPEN YEAR AROUND.



Gift packages of the most delicious citrus fruits are made up for you, your friends and family at the Flamingo Groves Packing House. A fancy citrus fruit pack makes an impressive gift for all occasions — we will be happy to send them for you anywhere in the country. Visitors are always welcome.
